DEDICATION

This year the yearbook is dedicated to Mr. Uniat in recognition of his services to the Student's Union in the past.

He has always been interested in the affairs of the Union and has very often been instrumental in the success and smooth operation of these ventures.

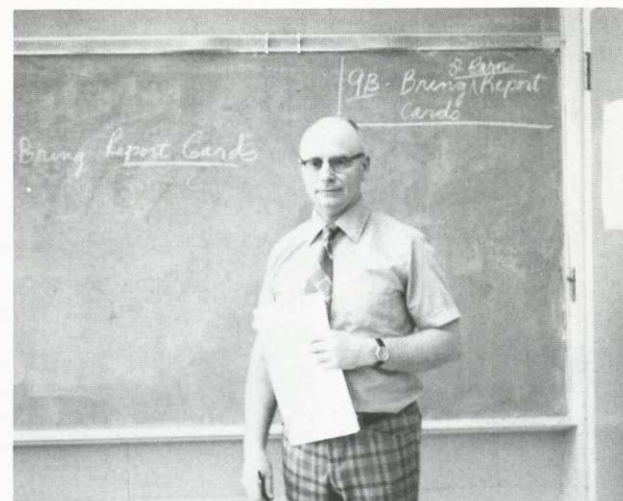

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

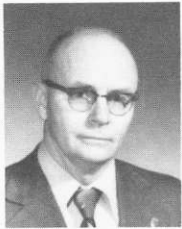

There are three qualities which young people must develop if they wish to share the Good Life. First, intellectual aspirations so that the mind remains in harmony with current realities. Secondly, there must be awareness of social necessities because very shortly our most pressing problems may not be technological, but political and social. The past is less relevant, the present is so fleeting and changing so rapidly, that we must now attempt to estimate where the forces of change are likely to be going and how we can guide them to insulate ourselves against excessive future shock. Thirdly, there must be cultural creativity. We all desire an enriched life and if we are to take seriously the prophesies of social scientists then we must prepare for increased leisure time that will need to be occupied productively to permit self-fulfillment through this medium.

I believe it is commendable to think and act Canadian for this country is one of the few that permit an individual the opportunity to contribute toward building an environment that he considers desirable to enable him to secure his needs.

This year the shyness of the year award goes to Mr. Onusko in view of his evasive, reflex-like actions in the face of an ominous camera lens. CONGRATULATIONS!!!!

Coming in a very close second was Miss Haubrich who has all the poise and grace of a winner but who lacks, unfortunately, the impecable professional dexterity of our Champion. KEEP TRYING!!!!

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Student Unions are very useful instruments in obtaining our wants; they are very practical and a good learning experience for all involved. But this can only be so if we (Students Unions) have the power and force to obtain these wants. The only way this can be achieved is by having total or 100% participation from its members, interest in the affairs of the union, and by having a straight-forward relationship with the school's administrators.

Too many of our members take the serious business of the Students Union too lightly. To some, our monthly meetings serve the purpose of a joke telling session, a sunflower eating contest, a gossip corner, and so on. They laugh, eat and cause disturbances, not caring about, or interested in the affairs that are being discussed. Little do they care, even if they might be affected, what happens to us and the school in general. Our purpose is to make our school an enjoyable and comfortable one in which to receive our education.

So, in the future, stop and think. You are not being made a hero because you disturbed the Students Union meeting. You are just making things hard for your only aide in achieving your wishes. THINK ABOUT IT!!!

SOCIAL CONVENOR'S REPORT

First of all I would like to thank you all for letting me hold this position in the Student Body. I am sorry for the disappointments and failures in this years social program. These were mostly due to misunderstanding between the administration and the Student Body. I would like to thank those of you who supported the social functions by attending them and working for them. I would also like to give credit to the fantastic job Charlotte Coma did as Advertising Director and Freda Krissa did as Committee Convenor. One last thought I would like to leave in mind is "Members of the Student Executive cannot perform their duties properly unless there is sound criticism and proper appreciation is shown, so please criticize if necessary and give credit where credit is deserved."

SPORTS CONVENOR'S REPORT

This year the students participated in a variety of sports. These included volleyball, basketball, curling, badminton, track and field, softball, and hardball.

Our girls' and boys' volleyball teams were very strong this year, winning a majority of their games. In the St. Paul tournament for the County Cup, both teams were defeated, but not before they gave St. Paul a run for their money.

In curling our girls' team managed to reach the playoffs in Edmonton, where unfortunately they lost.

Basketball started out strong and there was good fan support. The girls went through the season with only three losses--all to St. Paul. They finished second in the league and the boys third. Our junior teams also did well. At our invitational tournament both the boys and girls took first place. They also played for the County Cup but were defeated.

An added feature was the introduction of the "Easthope Challenge Cup". The senior boys won it for volleyball, however, the teachers surprised everyone by winning it for curling and basketball.

In badminton, six people went to Lloydminster. They played well, but all lost out.

Interest in track and field really grew this year. We had a big strong team. In Mallaig the boys won the trophy with a good forty points over their nearest rivals--St. Paul. The girls finished second. At the track meet in Lloyd. five qualified to go to the provincials where unfortunately all lost out.

Track And Field Meet In Mallaig

TO ZONES

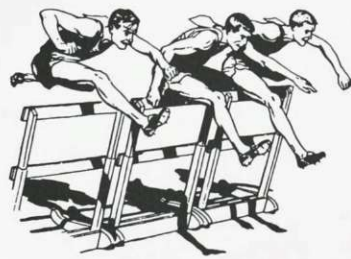

TO PROVINCIALS

On May 24th, 1972 there was a Track and Field Meeting in Mallaig town at the Park. It was sponsored by the St. Paul Athletic Association. Conveners were K. Nixon and A. Joly, Mallaig teachers.

The runners and jumpers of first and second place went to Lloydminster on May 27, 1972.

The points for the Mallaig boys were 104 while the girls totaled 49. Elk Points boys took home the trophy and the St. Paul girls also took the trophy.

....40 Grade 12 students participated in this eventful ceremony to signify the end of their school life and the beginning of a new phase of learning.

The theme was "Happiness is Being Together":

The first years are gone, spent in childish bliss, never fully embracing life. But now realization has come to us and we perceive that there can be a greater happiness than we now possess. We pause before the threshold of maturity, about to commence our search. What do we seek? To know love in all its myriad forms. To love a man not just for his possession, but for what he harbours in his soul. To know the trust of a child, the solace of a friend, and to believe in ourselves, not only for what we are, but for what we may be to others. We, the generation of "love and peace" must strip away the superficial that the inner world may be seen. Let us bring to love, responsibility, and to brotherhood, a caring mind. Though we must fight some battles alone, we cannot live alone. We are no longer separate entities occupying common space, but must find our happiness in being together, in caring together, and being at peace together.

Master of Ceremonies, Parents, Fellow Students, Honored Guests:

The theme for our Graduation is "Happiness is Being Together". For many of us, the full depth of this feeling will not be apparent until years later, when we look back upon our school years with somewhat altered attitudes. With the added confidence, and sense of responsibility that accompanies maturity, we will realize that many of our present doubts and insecurities were trivial and often even absurd. Hopefully, the feelings of resentment toward authority and toward the conforming to rules will diminish and be replaced by an understanding that a developmental system of education must imply some restrictions in personal freedom. Indeed, the twelve or so years that we have spent in school should have given us some preparation for the roles we will play in society as young adults. Our future successes or failures, whether in the eyes of society or simply our own, will be determined to a large extent by the "schooling" that our parents and teachers have given us.

This graduation ceremony is a measure of recognition of the completion of one phase of our learning. To say that our present level of learning is adequate or complete is false, for unless we acquire something new every day for the rest of our lives, we are extracting nothing from life and contributing less to it. We must live to learn, and conversely, learn to live. And to live to the fullest, we must set high personal goals and derive satisfaction from their fulfillment. But in the search for happiness we must not become absorbed with selfishness, and accordingly neglect or inhibit the rights and needs of our fellow men. It is from lack of social awareness that our universal problems such as racial prejudice, poverty, and religious conflict have evolved. We must remember that every person, in some way, helps to make the universe complete. Thus, before we are tempted to devote all of our energy and time to the pursuit of our own happiness we should acknowledge the rights of others to a full and satisfying existence. Likewise we must be sensitive to the needs and welfare of future generations. Problems such as pollution, and depletion of natural resources, which only recently began to cause the least stir of anxiety, will soon be crucial situations if not dealt with properly and effectively.

These and other problems will become as much our concern as they have been our parents! Moments of decision will be forced upon us and the issues and pressures of a competitive and often unkind society will become apparent. When we have passed this test of maturity the world will be ours to inherit and its destiny will be ours to direct. The guidance and morals that our parents and teachers have given us will affect not only the direction of our lives but will ultimately touch the lives of our children and our children's children.

The graduands have long and eagerly anticipated graduation, but now that it is near reality, we are experiencing an unexpected sadness, a feeling of regret that departure from accustomed patterns is eminent. It is not easy to bid farewell to fellow students, but this is necessary for our paths in the mobile Canadian society must be widely divergent. Our thoughts, too, embrace parents and teachers, for their encouragement and support have contributed in no small measure to the accomplishment of this occasion. There will, of course, be pictures and photographs to portray our involvement here today, but these will not be necessary, for in our hearts we can never be separated, in reminiscence, we will remain close. In our memories, the happiness of our shared accomplishments and experiences will forever be cherished.

Editorial

A yearbook is a record of the passing of a year, containing joy and sorrow, victory and defeat, creating a vivid contrast that is living itself. It is hoped that the work needed to create this yearbook has not been in vain, and that this book will be cherished by all.

In closing, we would like to express our thanks to all those who were sympathetic to our cause, and who helped to lighten the load--our advisor, Mr. Samuelson; our staff; and the others who showed an interest in the yearbook and assisted as they were able.

Interest is vital in a project such as this, and is gratefully received. It is a measure of the success of the yearbook or any other school endeavor and is directly reflected in the results. If complaints arise, it might be best to take a closer look at what interest you and others have shown and then determine whether the outcome was justified.
